MAME MAPES WILL BE HONORED AT 100th BIRTHDAY RECEPTION

Mame Mapes, a Porterville and Tulare county pioneer, will be honored on her 100th birthday at a reception in the Porterville Women's clubhouse, Saturday, March 4, from 2 p.m. until 5 p.m. All friends are invited to attend.

Arranging the reception are members of two organizations in which Mrs. Mapes played a prominent part through the years: Porterville Emblem Club No. 82, in which she served as chaplain from institution of the club in 1941 until 1958; and the Porterville Women's club, of which she was a member for more than a half century, and in which she served as president for two years - 1931 and 1932.

Mrs. Mapes, who now resides in Las Vegas, Nevada, will be brought to Porterville for the reception by a granddaughter, Frances Eleanor Britton Ellis, and a great-granddaughter, Sherry Lynn Ellis.

Born Mary Levert Owens, at Visalia, on February 29, 1872, Mrs. Mapes came to Porterville in 1893 shortly after her marriage to Andrew Sweezey Mapes, famous in the San Joaquin valley as a performer on the guitar, violin, and mandolin, and, by trade, a harness and saddle maker.

The Mapes Harness shop was located along the Old Emigrant trail - now Porterville's Main street - on the east side of what is now the north 200 block. The Mapes' lived above the shop.

Mapes' saddles were well-known throughout California, around the turn of the century, and in those days it was not uncommon for men outside the law to stop in and buy equipment.

"We gave them what they wanted," says Mrs. Mapes. "Back then we didn't ask questions."

Reminiscent of the old days is a well-preserved Mapes saddle that is now on display in the Porterville museum.

As memos from a busy life, Mrs. Mapes has letters from three United States presidents: From Woodrow Wilson, thanking her for selling War Bonds during World War I; from Franklin D. Roosevelt, commending her for her work in the civil defense program during World War II; and from Richard M. Nixon, congratulating her on her 100th birthday.

And in the early 1900s she was a guest aboard Admiral Dewey's flagship while the United States fleet was in San Francisco bay. The Mapes' only daughter, Frances Eileen, then only a toddler, took a nap in the admiral's bunk.

Eileen became an accomplished pianist and music teacher. She was married to the late Harry C. Britton, telephone company manager in Porterville, then to William W. Robbins, a member of the Porterville Union High school and Porterville college faculties.

Mrs. Mapes was the oldest of four children born to Amanda Frans Owens and Silas Marshall Owens. Her father was a wagon maker who often went prospecting for gold; her mother was an expert seamstress and dressmaker who from time to time ran a family-type boarding house when the Owens family fortunes were at a low ebb.

Although it was unusual in her time for a girl to seek higher education, Mrs. Mapes attended college at Stockton prior to her

SPRINGVILLE HOSPITAL TO BE FOR SALE IN NEXT THIRTY DAYS

SPRINGVILLE – Springville hospital will be put up for sale within 30 days by the County of Tulare unless the board of supervisors can come up with a county use for the facility within that time period, Board Chairman Raymond Muller announced last week.

Muller stated that the supervisors are still hoping that the county can use the hospital as a home for delinquent girls, for drug abuse or alcoholic rehabilitation centers, or similar projects benefitting Tulare county.

"The facility would almost certainly take a dual-purpose," said Muller, "due to its size and the heavy case load now imposed on our county hospital."

He added that annual $40,000 maintenance costs for the hospital are rapidly eating up its value to the county, and that it's time to either "put it to use or get rid of it."

Muller stated that at least a dozen inquiries for purchase of the hospital have been received from Denver, Texas, and Los Angeles, but that any county or local use would probably receive priority attention of the supervisors.

Muller suggested a starting sale price of $375,000 for the facility.

Ron Peyron Turns Artistic Ability To Creation Of Jackass Mail Stamp

PORTERVILLE – Rumor has it that there is little if anything authentic about the Jackass Mail, but rumor is wrong, for the Jackass Mail did exist in California history and the man who creates the modern Jackass Mail stamp - Ron Peyron - is authentic enough to work as head artist at Josten's in Porterville.

Peyron, whose Indian ancestry goes back even further than ancestry of the original Jackass Mail, designed his first stamp in 1970, came up with a new design in '71, then, this year, changed it again for the 11th running of the Mail from Porterville to Springville on March 25.

BREAKFAST LIONS APPROVE STAGE FOR FAIR; DOUG WEBB IS NAMED TO BOARD; VANDALIA 4-H DONATES

PORTERVILLE – Three major developments relating to the Porterville fair were handled by fair directors at a meeting Monday night in the Southern California Gas company office:

1. Doug Webb, past president of the Porterville Jaycees and a Porterville building contractor, was named to the board to replace Richard Owen, who recently resigned;

2. Representatives of the Porterville Breakfast Lions club told directors they are ready to go on a new outdoor stage for the fair; and

Webb will be officially seated and assigned a job at March meeting of the board. In past years he has worked on the sale of commercial exhibit space and has assisted with planning of the outdoor exhibit area.

As for the new outdoor stage, Joe Mosconi, president of the Breakfast Lions, and Jay Warnke, special projects chairman, stated that the stage will cost about $2,000. It will be constructed in two, 12x60 foot sections that can be used separately, or bolted together to form a 24x60 foot unit.

Framework will be of metal construction, a wooden floor will fit the framework, adjustable jacks underneath will

THE PROBLEM OF POVERTY

Californians are very well aware of the problems of poverty. As in much of America, there is a growing awareness here of the deep-rooted extent of those problems, and an earnest desire to find humanitarian and realistic solutions for them.

Concomitantly, there is a growing reaction against wasteful, costly, truly demeaning answers. Answers that make political footballs out of the needy.

This being a political year, we no doubt are in for more of the same. But as Phillip V. Sanchez, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, told the Commonwealth Club of California recently, it isn't all that simple.

Sanchez has a good word, however, for the political arguments. Pointing out that they are intra- as well as inter-party debates, he finds it "a healty sign" that there are arguments. Political leaders, he said, argue passionately, "but it is significant that they discuss methods (and) issues associated with how to attack poverty in America."

Back of this debate over methods, Sanchez believes, is a realization that this nation cannot be "incredibly rich, and at the same time look about us and say that we do not have enough money to eliminate want."

It has been too clearly illustrated — here in California as well as in other states — that handouts simply are not the humanitarian, realistic way of abolishing poverty. The opportunity to be self-sufficient is the crying need. As Sanchez puts it:

"If you give a man bread, he will eat tomorrow; if you give him a few seeds and a hoe, he will eat forever."

In 1907 she appeared as chief character witness in the U.S. District court, San Francisco, during a trial that involved the death of her brother, Harry Owens, who was stabbed when he intervened in an altercation between two ranch hands.

Mrs. Mapes' mother and her husband died within a few days of each other during a flu epidemic in the 1920s; a joint funeral service was conducted for them. One sister, Anna Daly, is still living, residing in Fresno.

Mrs. Mapes is being honored not only in her "home town" of Porterville, but also in Las Vegas where Jim Nabors, television and stage star, had her as his guest at his dinner show, sending a limousine for her and arranging for extensive press coverage.

At the request of Porterville-area friends, both a money tree and a wishing well are planned for the March 4, 100th birthday reception.

A brief program will be presented during the reception: Mrs. Robert Matzke will sing, "Happy Birthday;" Mrs. Pat Suhr will provide background music on the accordion; vocal selections will be presented by Mrs. Marshall Stephenson; Mrs. Wilbur Conner and Mrs. Edgar Prestage will serve as hostesses; Mrs. Ray Olson will be in charge of the guest book; Mrs. Josephine Witt is program chairman; Mrs. Grace Starks is handling publicity; Mrs. Marcus Jones is in charge of decorations; Bill Rodgers will act as master of ceremonies.

Invocation will be spoken by the Rev. Doyle Young, pastor of the First Christian Church of Porterville, of which Mrs. Mapes was a founding member.

With everything blooming around the country this should be dedicated as spring flowering week. Every direction that you look are bright bushy flowering quince, delicate blooms of red leaf plums, yellow forsythia, flowering pear whiter than snow, and we've named only a few of the blooms making up our colorful countryside.

If you look further wild flowers are in full swing, camellias are brightening up the shade areas along with primrose and cyclamen, and the spring flowering bulbs are popping up all over the place. Really it is a great time to clean your glasses, polish your eyeballs, and have a look.

If per chance this panorama of color gets you all excited we have all sorts of beautiful spring flowering plants selling for a dollar seventy five each that will really turn you on. These you should come in and have a look at while the selection is good and the color is there for you to see.

Also hidden around our joint are tomatoes, peppers, eggplant, onions, parsley, and other plants of edible nature. We even have a new shipment of rhubarb, asparagus, strawberries, horseradish, and blackberries for those that missed the first go around. We're open every day so you have no excuse to miss this golden opportunity.

PEACH CANNERS CONTINUE TO REJECT LONG-TERM CONTRACT

TULARE – California cling peach growers have so far failed to reach an agreement with canners on a system of long term contracting as the sole method for buying peaches for processing, but efforts toward that end will continue according to Ralph Bunje, manager of the California Cling Peach association.

Bunje told State Board of Agriculture members at a recent meeting in Tulare that his organization favors a system whereby canners would buy peaches for processing only under long-term contracts.

Under this plan, Bunje stated, no new acreage would be planted unless the grower had a contract for the purchase of his peaches. A suggested contract has been mailed to canning firms.

JUDGE BAIRD ANNOUNCES FOR SUPERVISOR

STRATHMORE – Judge R.D. Baird of Strathmore, has announced his candidacy for Supervisor of the First Supervisorial district, which now comprises Strathmore, Lindsay, Exeter, Farmersville, Lemon Cove, Springville and Woodville.

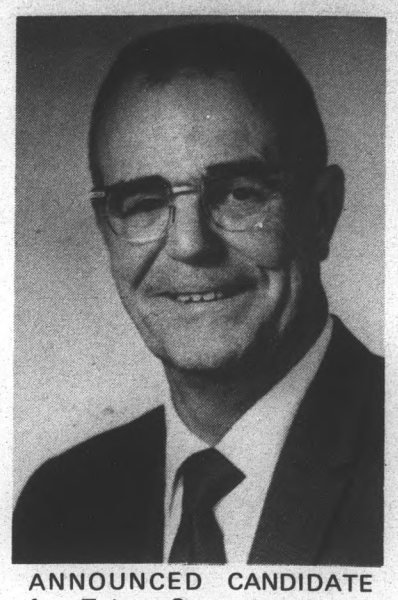

It will be the first time a supervisor has been elected from the newly apportioned district. In the past, Porterville has been included in the first district, but since reapportionment, no larger city dominates the district. In fact, Lindsay is its largest city.

Judge Baird, who has served as Judge of the Lindsay Justice court for 29 years, and before that, was Justice of the Peace in Strathmore for six years, declared:

"This new supervisorial district is the first opportunity for exclusive representation of the Orange Belt on the Board of Supervisors. Credible, dependable and reliable judgment is needed for that job. I think I can offer this."

Baird was born in Strathmore 57 years ago, as one of four sons of Mr. and Mrs. W.V. Baird. His father served as Justice of the Peace in Strathmore, for many years. He attended Strathmore Elementary school, Strathmore Union High school, and Porterville Junior college, then received a degree in accounting upon graduation from the University of California at Berkeley. Baird resided in San Francisco for a number of years before returning to Tulare county, where he served as Deputy Superintendent in the County Schools system.

Following this, he spent a few years in Porterville in commercial employment before he, with his wife and three children, moved to the family citrus ranch southwest of Strathmore. He ran and was elected twice to the office of Justice of the Peace, in Strathmore, which he held from 1947 to 1953.

He served as secretary of the Strathmore chamber of commerce for a number of years, headed the Strathmore Lions club as president, and served on the board of trustees of Strathmore Union High school for two terms.

CCLRS Officials Predict 23 Percent Rise In Navel Orange Production

SACRAMENTO - Navel orange growers are expected to produce 22 million boxes during the 1971-72 season - a 23 percent increase over last year's figures - according to California Crop and Livestock Reporting service officials.

The 1971-72 Valencia forecast is also set at 22 million boxes, six percent above last year's total. Freezing weather and smaller sizes have hurt the state's tangerine growers, with a 25 percent drop in production expected below last year's 800,000 boxes.

California's lemon crop forecast remains at 14.5 million boxes, nine percent above last season's 13.3 million boxes. Grapefruit production in the Desert valley is expected to reach 3.2 million boxes, with two million boxes predicted for other areas of the state.

GORDON DUFFY

DUFFY FILES FOR 21st DISTRICT ASSEMBLY SEAT

HANFORD – Assemblyman Gordon Duffy filed nomination papers last week with the Kings county clerk for reelection to the 21st Assembly District seat.

The veteran Republican lawmaker will be seeking his fifth term as Kings and Tulare county representative in Sacramento.

"Two of the major issues facing the California legislature are tax reform and providing financing for quality education. Both are interrelated and vital to our state's future," Duffy said. "If the legislature does not act responsibly this session, both issues will be thrust upon the public for resolution by initiative," he added.

"My campaign pledge is to continue providing aggressive support for preserving and enhancing the economic base of Tulare and Kings counties which, of course, is agriculture. In this regard, we must attempt to find means to help prevent the family farm operation from becoming extinct. And lastly, I shall continue to represent all the people of the district without regard to race, color, creed, religion or economic status to the best of my ability."

AUTHOR MARGARET THIELE WRITES OF ANCIENT CHINA FOR MODERN AMERICA

PLEASANT VALLEY – Spanning time from ancient to modern days through Chinese literature is the subject of a new book - "None But The Nightingale" - by Author-Lecturer Mrs. Edwin Thiele of Pleasant Valley.

Mrs. Thiele, who toured throughout the People's Republic of China from 1920 to 1929, says that the book refers to a Chinese proverb stating that "none but the nightingale should part his lips merely to emit sound."

Many similar proverbs apply to modern-day situations, she states, and a compilation of them in English seemed to be appropriate material for a book. Mrs. Thiele speaks and writes Mandarin fluently, and translated many of the proverbs into English for "None But The Nightingale."

"Much of what is said in literature today is trivial in nature," said Mrs. Thiele. The Chinese' mastery of precise communication through minimal use of words, - such as one-line, one-thought proverbs - could be applied to contemporary American speech and literature, she added.

In January of this year, Mrs. Thiele sent a copy of "None But The Nightingale" to President Nixon, expressing her hope that his trip to Peking would begin a new era in U.S. relations with China.

The President's reply came recently, stating, "It is especially good to know that you and your husband share my hope that my forthcoming trip will be a step forward in building the peace we so earnestly desire.

"Your generous words of support also mean a great deal to me, and you may be sure I will do everything in my power to merit your confidence."

Mrs. Thiele has two other books not yet published, the fictional "A Home For Su-Lan" and "Here's China," a photo essay containing over 100 of the prints she used to augment her lecture tour in the 1920's.

Many of the photos included in "Here's China," she says, are of places the President visited during his trip to Peking.

Other books already published by Mrs. Thiele include: "By Saddle and Sleigh," "E Ming and E Ru," and "Whirlwind of the Lord." Mrs. Thiele wrote under the name Margaret White before marrying Edwin Thiele, noted authority on Old Testament chronology.

Mr. and Mrs. Thiele have lived in retirement in Pleasant Valley since moving from Wisconsin in 1966.

MARGARET THIELE, author-lecturer and resident of Pleasant Valley, is shown holding her newest books, "None But The Nightingale," and one to be published in the near future, "A Home For Su-lan."

GROWERS NEED RAIN SOON

VISALIA – Tulare county cotton growers began pre-plant irrigation this week, according to Agricultural Commissioner Elvin Mankins.

Small grain and alfalfa growers also began irrigating as soil moisture is becoming short. Sugar beet planting continues.

Almond orchards are beginning to bloom, and new growth in plum orchards is also starting to show.

Navel orange harvest continues. Tomatoes, squash, and cucumbers are being planted under white caps.

Range cattle are in good shape, said Mankins, but range grass will need rain soon for continued growth.

Fielder Proposes Control Program For Mealybug

SACRAMENTO — Ultimate answer to control of the Comstock mealybug in Tulare county may lie in an integrated approach, using biological control, limited chemical control, and a quarantine program according to State Director of Agriculture Jerry Fielder.

Although Comstock mealybug infestation is presently confined to the Lindsay-Porterville area in Tulare county, Fielder stressed that the insect would pose a major threat to many fruit crops and ornamental plants if it were allowed to spread to other areas of the state.

Predators and parasites have been effective in suppressing Comstock mealybug populations in the eastern United States and in some foreign countries, but have not proven adaptable to California. A purely chemical control would be costly and probably not completely effective, said Fielder.

RON PEYRON

three colors - black, yellow and red added to a basic white. It is on sale at the Porterville chamber of commerce, at several emporiums of easy living along the Emigrant trail, in several Springville business firms, and at points here and there along the route of the 190 trail.

And there is some reason to believe that from time to time trail tramps and lovely ladies will be seen along Porterville streets offering unsuspecting citizens an opportunity to trade four bits (50 cents) for one Jackass Mail stamp.

Peyron, who in addition to working as an artist also plays the role of The Savage in Doc Small's Medicine show, was born in Porterville, attended Vine street, Doyle Colony, Bartlett and Porterville high schools, eventually did a two-year hitch in the U.S. Army - most of it in Germany, then got into art work as a career.

In high school he studied art and mechanical drawing, then enrolled in a correspondence course, Art Instruction, at Minneapolis, Minnesota.

Following graduation from high school, he worked in the Sunland packing house during winter months and for the U.S. Forest Service during the summer, starting as a fire fighter in an Indian crew from the Tule River reservation.

Subsequently he worked with a trail crew out of Springville; became fire control aid at Quaking Aspen under Tom Masonheimer (who was later to gain everlasting fame as wagonmaster of the 1968 Jackass Mail) then worked with a Forest Service survey crew.

During these years, Peyron continued to study art by correspondence, but did not have time to continue while in the army. But in 1967, after receiving his discharge, he went back with the Forest Service for a year, picking up his art study, then in January, 1968, went to work for Josten's as an art trainee.

Peyron's local Indian ancestry goes back to his grandmothers on both sides of his family. His grandmother on his father's side was Juana Silvas, of Mission and Pun-ga-lachie Indian blood, who was born on Deer creek. His grandfather, Celestino Peyron, was born in France, came first to New York City, then to Delano, married Juana, bought land on Deer creek from her father, Ramon Silvas, and also homesteaded other land to go into the sheep and cattle business.

Peyron's grandmother on his mother's side was Mary A. Slocum, who was born in the Milo area and was of French, Scotch and Cherokee Indian blood. Her father was Alvin Slocum, who was famous as an early-day violin maker; one of his violins being displayed now in the Porterville museum.

Mary Slocum married Harry Amick, who was also born and raised in the Milo country and who worked as a logger at Dillonwood and as a fire lookout on Blue Ridge. He was also of French and Indian ancestry.

Peyron's mother, Dorothy, was born at Tulare; his father, Albert, who is employed by the City of Porterville, was born at the Peyron ranch on Deer Creek.

So it is likely that some of Ron Peyron's ancestors were around when the first Jackass Mail hit California - actually the San Antonio and San Diego Mail line, established 115 years ago with regular twice-a-month service between Texas and California.

Because stage coaches were pulled by mules, and because through one stretch of desert passengers were forced to ride mules, the line became known as the Jackass Mail.

Fare from San Antonio to San Diego was $200 and an early-day ad said, "Passengers and Express matter forwarded in New Coaches drawn by six mules over the entire length of our line, except the Colorado Desert of 100 miles which we cross on mule back."

The term Jackass Mail caught on during California mining days. Feeder line stages, often pulled by mules, that operated off main lines into mining and logging camps, were, naturally, Jackass Mail stages.

Actually the term was not used locally, however, horse drawn stages ran on regular schedule for many years between Porterville and Springville, and on up into the logging camps of the North Tule.

Another artistic contribution made this year by Peyron was planning and applying decorative design and paint on the new Doc Small Medicine Show wagon that was re-built by Domer Power (also a former Jackass Mail wagonmaster) for use in the PUHS Panther Band Ram-49er halftime show in L.A.

A STANDING ROOM only audience watched perhaps the best show in the 10-year City of Hope Spectacular series Saturday night in the Porterville Memorial auditorium, with the benefit show returning more than $2,250 to the City of Hope Medical facility at Duarte. In photo, from left: Mel Heininger, executive coordinator for the City of Hope, presents a plaque of appreciation to Buck Shaffer who has produced and directed the show since its inception; Gary Garcia, a City of Hope Spectacular "discovery" who has appeared on many of the shows, receives a recognition plaque from Shaffer. Also receiving a 10th anniversary plaque from Heininger was Bill Rodgers, who has MCed the Spectacular for a number of years.

County Planning Commission Will Wait For Nuclear Plant Impact Study

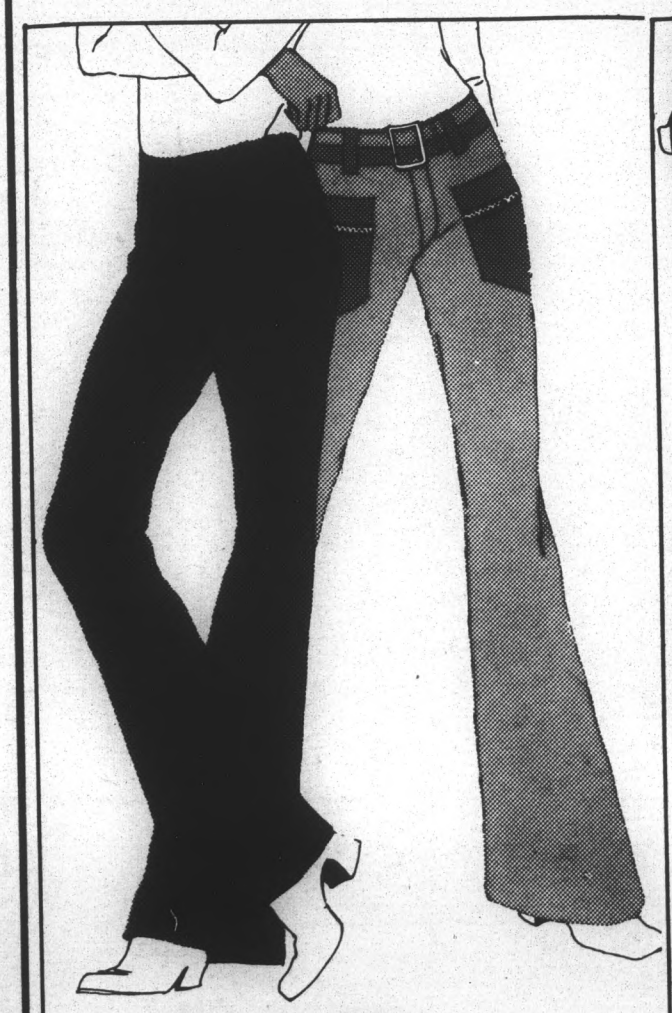

VISALIA – Tulare county planning commission members recently informed supervisors they will not take a stand on the proposed nuclear reactor plan of the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power pending a detailed impact analysis.

The commission's letter to the supervisors said, "the commission must be prepared to rule in the future on any application of approval of the environmental impact study of a nuclear reactor in Tulare county.

"We feel it would be improper for us to take a stand on this issue at this time without the benefit of a detailed impact analysis."

Under state law, the DWP must bring such an analysis before the commission for consideration before moving ahead with the project.

MINERAL KING PROJECT COURT RULING EXPECTED

VISALIA – Tulare County Calvin Baldwin stated recently that he expects a decision any day now from the U.S. Supreme Court on the long-delayed Mineral King project.

The project, proposed by Walt Disney Enterprises, would develop a thirty-five million dollar resort facility in the Alpine valley above Springville. A suit brought by the Sierra club has held up the development so far, but Baldwin stated that the Supreme court heard arguments on the case late last year, and has issued decisions on other cases heard since the Sierra club-Mineral King suit.

Disney Project Director for Mineral King Robert Hicks stated that his firm's plans haven't changed, but are contingent on construction of a 20-mile access road into the Mineral King area. Estimated cost of the road is one million dollars per mile.

Spokesmen for the State Department of Highways say plans for the road have been delayed, pending the Supreme Court ruling. They added that funds for the highway would have to be re-allocated if the ruling favors development of the Disney project.

ASCS Acreage Inspection Program Payment

VISALIA - Farmers who use the set-aside inspection and early measurement service offered by the county agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office will be guaranteed that their setaside acreage in the 1972 farm programs will be of acceptable quality and sufficient acreage to earn full program payments according to M.L. Rogers, chairman of the Tulare County ASC committee.

The guarantee of sufficient acreage, provided the staked measurements are followed, has long been a major reason for wide-spread use of the ASCS measurement service by farm program participants, Rogers stated.

"Guarantee means just that, "Rogers said. "If a farmer gets set-aside inspection and early measurement service - and follows those measurements when he makes his set-aside - then ASCS guarantees no deductions will be made from his program payments because of insufficient set-aside or because the set-aside land was not of average productivity."

The quality-and-quantity set-aside guarantee was announced at the beginning of the sign-up period for the 1972 feed grain, wheat, and cotton programs. Signup opened February 3 and continues through March 10 at the county ASCS office.

Three vacancies exist for the academy class entering June, 1972, with final selection from the group of 25 to be made by academy officials.
